Compensation event

Your guaranteed deposit is subject to compensation in the following events:

If the Bank in accordance with the legislation of Republic of Armenia is recognized as insolvent and the fact of incapacity to repay the deposits, within the terms defined by the agreement and the law, is approved by the Board resolution of the Central Bank of Republic of Armenia (hereinafter the Central Bank); or

If the bank in accordance with the procedure defined by the legislation of Republic of Armenia is recognized as bankrupt (hereinafter the Insolvent Bank).

The maximum amount and the calculation method of the guaranteed deposit

The calculation method of the guaranteed deposits is defined by the Board Resolution of the Central Bank no. 261-N dated 26 August, 2008.

ATTENTION: All your deposits in Armenian drams within the same Bank are deemed to be a single deposit in Armenian drams, except for the unguaranteed banking deposits, and all your deposits in foreign currency within the same Bank are deemed to be a single deposit in foreign currency, except for the unguaranteed banking deposits.

In cases when your deposit with the Bank is formed as a result of one or more bank mergers with the Bank, then each deposit you have in each of the merged bank will be treated as a separate deposit in the manner stipulated in the law.

The guaranteed limits of the deposits are the following:

The Currency Structure of the Deposit	If you have a deposit only in Armenian drams within the same bank	If you have a deposit only in foreign currency within the same bank	If you have deposits both in Armenian drams and in foreign currency within the same bank
			If the deposit in Armenian drams is more than AMD 7 (seven) M	If the deposit in Armenian drams is less than AMD 7 M
The maximum amount of the deposit guarantee	AMD 16 M	AMD 7 M	AMD 16 M (only the deposit in Armenian drams is guaranteed)	AMD 7 M (the deposit in Armenian drams is fully guaranteed and deposit in foreign currency is guaranteed in the amount of the difference between AMD 7 M the guaranteed deposit in Armenian drams)

If you have separate banking deposit in the insolvent bank and at the same time you are an owner of joint banking deposit within the same bank, you are guaranteed for the sum of your separate banking deposit and your portion of the joint banking deposit - in accordance with the procedure and the amount stipulated in the Law.

If you have a non-performing obligation towards the insolvent bank, the compensated amount is calculated based on the positive difference between your banking deposit and the problematic obligation. The obligation is considered non-performing in case if you have delayed the repayment of its principal amount (or any part of it) or interest amount for more than 90 days after the repayment date stipulated in the agreement.

The joint banking deposit of two or more depositors is considered separate deposit of each depositor in the portion defined by the agreement. If the portions of the depositors of the joint banking deposit are not defined in the agreement, the joint deposit is equally divided between the depositors.

The banking deposit is compensated only in Armenian drams. The dram equivalence of banking deposit in foreign currency is determined by the currency market average exchange rate published by the Central Bank on the day the compensation event has occurred.

Your banking deposit is not compensated if on the date of compensation occurrence the deposit is less than AMD 1,000 (one thousand).
